Mr. Jay Bhatt

Jay Bhatt received the M.S. in Library and Information Science from Drexel Univeristy in 1997 and M.S. in Electrical and Computer Engineering also from Drexel in 1986. He joined the Hagerty Library as an Information Services librarian for Engineering in December 1997. His interest areas include: collection development in engineering emphasizing electronic resources, outreach to faculty and students, teaching engineering information seeking skills to faculty and students, information competencies for engineering faculty and students and in how web 2.0 is changing scholarly communication. He loves mentoring and working with students. He is actively involved with the Engineering Libraries Division of the American Society fo Engineering Education. He received IEEE's mentorship award and a Certificate of Appreciation in recognition of outstanding leadership as the Drexel University IEEE Graduate Students Forum Partnership Coordinator and Student Branch Liaison 2006-2007.He is the 2003 recipient of Drexel University's Harold Myers Distinguished Service Award