

Dr Buhle Mbambo-Thata

Dr Buhle Mbambo-Thata is the Executive Director, Library Services, University of South Africa. Prior to that, she was University Librarian, University of Zimbabwe. She is a Steering Committee member of the Library Network of Association of Commonwealth Universities, the Chairperson, of IFLA, Division 5 Regional Activities; and Chairperson of the E-Knowledge Society for Women in Southern Africa. She is the immediate past Chairperson of the Zimbabwe University libraries Consortium, and Africa Section of IFLA ; former member of Advisory Board Member of the eIFL.net 2004-2007 and was Advisory Board Member Access to Learning Award of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation 2004 and 2007.

She has extensive knowledge of information and communication technology (ICT) environment in Africa through her involvement with African Libraries. She has been involved with Library consortium building in a number of African countries including, Nigeria, Ghana, Lesotho, Zimbabwe, Zambia among others. She is a sought out speaker at conferences in innovative usage of ICT in libraries and in higher education. Her research interests are in information literacy, and women and ICT. She holds a DPHIL in Information Science.